The Company, as well as any third party or data/content provider, will not be held liable for any delays, inaccuracies, errors, omissions, or actions taken in reliance upon such information or due to non-performance or interruption or termination of services.

8. Introduction

8.1. This agreement, along with any legal document that the Company and the Client agree upon, outlines the terms on which the Company will handle the Client's orders and trades over financial instruments on the Company's trading platform. The Agreement may be amended from time to time.

8.2. Forex trading is a market where buyers and sellers (the Clients) exchange currency with each other at an agreed-upon price. It allows individuals, companies, and central banks to convert one currency to another. Unlike the New York Stock Exchange, the forex market has no centralized location and is an over-the-counter market.

8.3. The Client must be at least 18 years old (or of legal age if the law of the Client's jurisdiction requires a higher legal age) to open an account and use the Trading Platform provided by the Company. The license granted by the Company is personal and non-transferable. The Client may not transfer or give access codes to anyone else to use the Trading Account. If the Client breaches this Agreement, any damage caused will be the Client's sole responsibility.

8.4. The Company provides all services to the Client and the Client enters into a contractual agreement with the Company only. The Company is the management company.

9. Opening of the Trading Account

9.1. The Company will create a Trading Account for the Client as soon as possible after the Client agrees to this Agreement by clicking the "I AGREE" button or link on the Company's Website and submitting a completed application form (if required) and all other necessary information for verification. The Client must ensure that all information provided is accurate and complete, and must inform the Company immediately of any changes to such information.

9.2. The Trading Account will be activated once the Company has received the funds deposited by the Client. The Company may activate the Trading Account and allow trading with certain limitations before full verification is complete, subject to further requirements imposed by the Company. If the Trading Account is activated but such requirements are not met, the Company may freeze activity in the account. No funds held by the Company for the Trading Account may be transferred back until the Company is satisfied that all applicable regulations have been followed if the Trading Account is not activated or is frozen.

9.3. The Company may act as principal or agent on behalf of the Client in any Transaction entered into under this Agreement, according to its sole discretion. This means that the Company may act as the counterparty to the Client's Trading activity. The Client confirms that they are acting as a principal and not as an agent or trustee on behalf of another person.

9.4. The Client guarantees that their engagement with the Company under this Agreement and their use of the Company's services are fully compliant with the applicable law.

10. Trading Platform

10.1. The Trading Platform provided by the Company allows trading in foreign exchange rates of various currencies, commodities, and other financial instruments made available by the Company (referred to as "Financial Instruments"). The Trading Platform displays indicative quotes of exchange rates of different financial instrument pairs based on various financial information systems, providing the most up-to-date exchange rates in the international capital markets. Mathematical calculations based on accepted capital markets formulas are used to determine the quotes for different time periods. It is acknowledged by both Parties that different trading platforms and/or markets may display different price quotes due to various calculation methods and other circumstances.

10.2. The Client can profit from trading forex by buying currency pairs and selling them at a higher price, with the difference between the buy and sell price being the profit that can be generated. When this concept applies to trading currency pairs, it is called a "long position." Another concept is a "short position," where the Client can sell currency pairs at a high price and buy them later at a lower price, with the profit being the difference between the selling price and the buying price.

10.3. The Company does not guarantee that trading in the Trading Account will be available at all times.

10.4. The Client authorizes the Company to rely on and act on any order, request, instruction, or other communication given or made (or purporting to be given or made) by the Client or any person authorized on the Client's behalf, without further inquiry on the part of the Company as to the authenticity, genuineness, authority, or identity of the person giving or purporting to give such order, request, instruction, or other communication. The Client will be responsible for and bound by all obligations entered into or assumed by the Company on behalf of the Client in consequence of or in connection with such orders, requests, instructions, or other communication.

10.5. The Company has the right, but not the obligation, to set, at its absolute discretion, limits and/or parameters to control the Client's ability to place orders or to restrict the terms on which a Transaction may be made. Such limits and/or parameters may be amended, increased, decreased, removed, or added to by the Company and may include (without limitations):

- (I) Controls over maximum order amounts and maximum order sizes;
- (II) Controls over the total exposure of the Company to the Client;
- (III) Controls over prices at which orders may be submitted;
- (IV) Controls over any electronic services provided by the Company to the Client (including, without limitation, any verification procedures to ensure that any particular order or orders have come from the Client);
- (V) Any other limits, parameters, or controls that the Company may be required to implement. The Company may also require the Client to limit the number of open Transactions that the Client may have with the Company at any time.

10.6. The Company does not allow actions or non-actions based on arbitrage calculations or other methods that are based on the exploitation of different systems or platforms malfunction, delay, error, etc.

10.7. The Company has the right, at its own discretion, to cancel any trade that has been executed due to or in connection with an error, system malfunction, breach of the Agreement by the Client, etc. The company's records will serve as decisive evidence of the correct quotes in the world capital markets and the wrong quotes given to the Client. The Company is entitled to correct or cancel any trade based on the correct quotes.

10.8. Reporting - The client can view their open trades ("Positions") and guarantee funds situation at any time by accessing their Trading Account on the Company's platform and viewing past trade reports generated by the Company.

11. Funds:

11.1. The Client can transfer funds to the Company through various payment methods that are permitted by the Company, in any currency acceptable to the Company. These funds will be converted and managed in the Trading Platform in US Dollars and/or Euro and/or GBP, according to the Company's determination and an exchange rate that the Company determines based on available market rates.

11.2. If the Client uses a bank transfer to transfer funds, the Client must provide the Company with an authentic SWIFT confirmation that contains full bank account details and proof that the bank account is registered under the Client's name. Failure to provide the SWIFT confirmation or if the details provided do not match the Client's details registered with the Company may result in the funds not being credited to the Client's Trading Account.

11.3. The Funds deposited by the Client with the Company, along with any Profit or other Benefits that the Client may be entitled to based on a specific agreement with the Company, will be used as security for any Transaction, including Trading Losses, Commission, and any other fee or debt owed by the Client to the Company. These fees will be automatically deducted from the Client's equity in the Trading Account. The Client's Funds will not accrue interest or any other benefits. Trading based on a reference security will not grant the Client any right to dividends, voting, allocations, or any other Benefits, but may be subject to adjustments based on financial or corporate events that may affect the referenced security, such as distribution of dividends, splits, etc.

11.4. If the Company repays any funds to the Client via wire transfer, the repayment will be made in the same currency and to the same account/credit card from which the funds were originally transferred. However, if the Company decides at its own discretion, it may return the funds to a different account of the Client.

11.5. The Client declares that all funds transferred to the Company do not originate from any criminal or illegal activity and comply with all applicable anti-money laundering laws and regulations.

11.6. The Client cannot hold the Company responsible for any delay and/or differences arising from the credit companies, banks, or other financial institutions rates calculation, commission, or any other debit.

11.7. If the Client requests to withdraw funds from the Trading Account, the finance department will oversee every withdrawal request submitted. To process any withdrawal, identification documents must be submitted. The Company will pay the specified amount within seven to ten (7-10) Business Days once the instructions have been accepted, and the Client's margin requirements, proof of identity, and due diligence criteria have been met. The Company may cancel the Client's withdrawal order if, according to the Company's discretion, the remaining funds (after the withdrawal) are not sufficient to secure open Positions in the Trading Account.

11.8. The Company is not responsible for any delays in withdrawals due to third-party policies (banks, credit card companies, or other service providers) or any force majeure events beyond the Company's control.

11.9. The Company will debit the Client's Trading Account for all payment charges. If the Client has an obligation to pay any amount to the Company that exceeds the amount held in the Client's Trading Account, the Client must immediately pay such amount upon the Company's request.

11.10. The Company does not provide physical delivery in relation to any Transaction. Profit or loss is credited or debited to or from the Trading Account (as applicable) once the Transaction is closed.

12. Bonus Policy

12.1. The Company may offer various incentives to new or existing customers, such as welcome bonuses, contests, and awards. These rewards are part of the Company's promotional programs, and their terms and conditions are subject to change.

12.2. If the Company suspects any fraudulent activity or violation of its Terms and Conditions, any bonuses and profits earned using bonus credits will be forfeited.

12.3. To withdraw funds from an account that has been credited with a trading bonus, the trader must meet a minimum trading volume requirement of (bonus amount + deposit) x25.

12.4. Once a trading bonus has been credited to an account, it cannot be removed, and all trading bonuses are final. Funds can only be withdrawn after the minimum trading volume requirement has been fulfilled.

13. Fees & Charges

13.1. The Company applies brokerage fees or commissions for the execution of trades.

13.2. Deposits made to the Company by Credit Card or Wire Transfer are not subject to fees imposed by the Company. Clients may incur fees charged by their own banks.

13.3. Withdrawals made by Credit Card or Wire Transfer are not subject to fees. The Company covers all fees for wire withdrawals.

13.4. If your trading account remains inactive for a certain period, an inactivity fee may be charged in accordance with the working regulations. Commissions will be deducted monthly from your account balance until you resume activity or the balance reaches zero.

13.5. The Company reserves the right to introduce additional fees and charges, and to modify existing fees and charges, by giving the Client at least 10 Business Days' notice of such changes.

14. Advice, Information, and Tax

14.1. Any market commentary or other information provided by the Company is incidental to the Client's relationship with the Company and is solely intended to help the Client make their own investment decisions.

14.2. The Company cannot be held responsible for any consequences that result from the Client's use of such trading recommendations, market commentary, or other information.

14.3. The Client acknowledges that the Company will not be liable for any losses, costs, expenses, or damages resulting from inaccuracies or mistakes in any information provided to the Client, except in cases of fraud, willful default, or gross negligence on the part of the Company.

14.4. The Company is not obligated to assess the suitability of any transaction for the Client or to determine whether the Client has the necessary knowledge and experience to understand the risks associated with the transactions. All risks associated with such transactions are solely the Client's responsibility.

15. Privacy and Data Protection

15.1. Because of the Company's business and relationship with clients, they will possess certain personal client information. All data collected, whether in paper or electronic form, will be protected to maintain client privacy in accordance with data protection laws.

15.3. The Client agrees to allow the Company to use their details for updates, information, or promotional purposes through the Client's provided contact information. The Client can cancel this consent by providing written notice to the Company, and the cancellation will apply only to future publications that have not yet been sent.

15.4. The Company may record all conversations with the Client and monitor all emails exchanged between the Client and the Company. Such records are the Company's property and may be used in the event of a dispute.

17. Closing an account and cancellation of the agreement

17.1. Either party may end this Agreement by giving written notice of termination to the other party at least 10 days before termination. If one party breaches this Agreement or defaults, the other party may terminate it immediately. If the Client receives a termination notice, they must close all open positions. Otherwise, the notice will be void, and the Company may close all open positions without taking responsibility, which may result in a less favorable outcome for the Client.

17.2. After termination, any amounts owed by one party to the other party will be immediately due.

17.3. Termination will not affect any outstanding rights and obligations under the applicable law and provisions of this Agreement.

18. Limitations of Liability and Indemnities

18.1. The Company provides its services "as is" and "as available," without any express or implied warranties, including but not limited to warranties of merchantability and fitness for a particular purpose. 18.2. The Client acknowledges that the Trading Platform follows the relevant market, regardless of whether the Client is in front of their computer or not, and will execute orders left by the Client, if applicable.

18.3. The Client must compensate the Company for all liabilities, damages, losses, and costs incurred by the Company, including legal costs, duties, taxes, charges, commissions, or other expenses, upon first demand by the Company.

18.4. The Company has the right to set off any amount owed by the Company to the Client against any debt or other obligation of the Client to the Company. In the event of Default of the Client (voluntary or involuntary insolvency procedures against the Client), all debts, future debts, and other obligations of the Client to the Company become immediately due.

19. General Provisions

19.1. The Company reserves the right to make changes to the Agreement without obtaining prior consent from the Client.
